SPECIALIST IN EDUCATION WITH SUPERINTENDENT LICENSURE

Cohort in Des Moines, Fall 2016

Join the ranks of the many esteemed Bulldogs leading successful school districts across the state. Pursue your Specialist in Education with Superintendent Licensure at Drake University.

Cohorts start on campus in Des Moines every two years; a new cohort will begin fall 2016. Students attend class six weekends per semester, and the program can be finished in less than two years.

ADVANCE AT DRAKE

- The pedigree of a Drake education is well known and respected across the state: About one-third of superintendents in Iowa are Bulldogs.
- You'll learn from experienced faculty and benefit from a mentorship with a practicing administrator.
- Face-to-face weekend courses are convenient and allow for maximum, collaborative learning within your cohort.
- Simulations and hands-on learning equip you for real-life scenarios as a prepared school leader.
- You will gain skills, confidence, and resources to market your abilities in the field of education.
- Graduate with a head start toward a Doctor of Education in Education Administration with Superintendent Licensure.

Applications are due eight weeks before the intended start date. Visit www.drake.edu/sedl/superintendent for more information and to apply.
